

MAKING GOOD For STATE and NATION

In the stirring days of 1863 when the country was torn asunder with civil strife—with confusion becoming worse confounded—when trained men were needed to organize—to systematize—to bring order out of chaos—this institution was founded.

Today, in a crisis even greater, this same institution is busily at work training the boys and girls of this section to be of valuable service to the nation in its need.

Never has the value of BRYANT & STRATTON training been more strikingly exemplified—never has its need been more urgently emphasized—and, just as the graduates of this school made good heretofore wherever placed; today, they are reflecting great credit upon themselves and the school by making good for state and nation.

PROVIDENCE : : RHODE ISLAND

Nov. 5, 1917.

I take this opportunity to thank the Bryant & Stratton-Rhode Island Commercial School, for the thoro instruction I received while a student there. I feel quite certain that my present position is due to the complete courses maintained by the school.

I am at present an Assistant Paymaster in the U. S. N. R. F., stationed at the War College at Newport, R. I., as assistant to the Disbursing Officer of the Second Naval District. My duties are varied, inasmuch as I have charge of the accounts of all of the men in the outlying sections, and also of the pay accounts of several thousand men stationed here at Newport.

Sincerely,

Henry C. Bowley.

Asst. Paymaster,
U. S. N. R. F.

Washington, D. C., 11/8/17.

I attribute my success in securing an appointment here in the War Department to the excellent training I received in both stenography and typewriting at your school and the friendly interest you have manifested in my welfare since I enrolled back in 1915.

I would not only ask you to encourage your students and prospective students to enter the Civil Service but to urge them to do so, as the demand for all classes of clerks in practically all the departments here far exceeds the supply.

For all those who are contemplating any business course the Bryant & Stratton-R. I. Commercial School is THE school, when a thoro and efficient training is in view.

Sincerely,

Spice Connors.

The training that I received at the Rhode Island Commercial School has proven most beneficial to me. Immediately upon graduating I was placed in a fine position with the Rhode Island Company. After one and one-half years I decided to take the Civil Service examination for Stenographer and Typewriter, and passed the test with a very high mark, due to the thoro training that I received while taking the course. Less than one month after taking the examination I was appointed to a position in the Post Office Department at Washington at an excellent salary.

Respectfully,

John J. Gregory.

November 9, 1917.

As a former student of your night school, it gives me great pleasure to compliment the Bryant & Stratton-R. I. Commercial School for the efficient and thoro training I have received in stenography and typewriting, to which my present position in the Surgeon General's Office of the War Department is due.

I wish the school continued success and assure you that I would be more than pleased to recommend the Bryant & Stratton-R. I. Commercial School to all my friends.

Yours very truly,

Albert Green

Students Accepted Any Monday

More than 1200 young men and women have selected this school in preference to all others—high schools or colleges—this fall. Students may enter any Monday—day or evening sessions.

Midwinter term opens Monday, December 31, 1917.

B. & S. STUDENTS FROM WESTERLY

This splendid group of young men and women of the class of 1917, all from one section of the State, is indicative of the prestige and standing enjoyed by this school throughout southern New England. They came to this school because they knew that the great majority of Rhode Island's successful business men and women owed their start in life to the advantages which they obtained here. A graduate of BRYANT & STRATTON—even a beginner, has obtained an opportunity—an opening—a standing in the community—that no other equipment can give.

AMONG THE GRADUATES OF BRYANT & STRATTON'S

In the long list of distinguished men and women who have gone forth during the past half century from this school imbued with its teachings and possessed of its training, are to be found Presidents of National Banks, Presidents of leading Trust Companies, Presidents of large manufacturing concerns, Department Heads of many noted institutions, Justice of Rhode Island Supreme Court, Stenographic Secretary to Princeton University, Assistant Secretary to Governor Beeckman.
